JAPAN DECIDES ON FUTURE COURSE

Will Send Ultimatum After Port
Arthur's Fall.

The Two Vast Armies Are Now
Within Sight Of One Another.

ARTILLERY IS KEEPING BUSY

Rome, June 30.—A telegram from Tokyo says that a meeting of the council of ministers was held this morning and it was decided, says the telegram, that after the fall of Port Arthur and the Russian evacuation of Liao Yang, Marshal Oyama should address an ultimatum to General Kuropatkin asking him to surrender and avoid another bloodshed. It was also decided that General Oyama should send a copy of the ultimatum to the powers. Should General Kuropatkin refuse to surrender, the Japanese anticipate they will be able to annihilate his force.

THE ENEMY IN SIGHT.

Rome, June 30.—A message from Chifu reports that the Japanese are encamped eight miles from the Port Arthur forts. The rival forces are visible to each other. Two Russian officers say the message while trying to cross the Japanese lines were captured. The artillery of the opposing forces was vigorously exchanging shots today.

VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON.

Tokio, June 30.—A telegram from Goman, Korea, states that the Russian Vladivostok squadron appeared off that place and began an attack on the town this morning.

RUSSIAN BOATS DAMAGED.

Chifu, June 30.—Fifty Europeans who have arrived from Pigeon Bay report that in a battle outside Port Arthur last Thursday night, the Russian battleship Sevastopol, was slightly, and the dispatch boat, Amur, seriously, damaged.

SHIP TO BE REPAIRED.

Kobe, Japan, June 30.—The Japanese transport Sadeomaru which was sunk by the Russian Vladivostok fleet in the Straits of Korea a fortnight ago, has been refloated and will be docked at Nagasaki and thoroughly repaired.

SILENCE IS OMINOUS.

St. Petersburg, June 30.—Uncasiness is felt here on account of the failure to give news of the last naval encounter, it being believed that a Russian battleship and also a cruiser have been sunk, while another cruiser was badly damaged. Several papers refer to the matter, remarking significantly that it is very poor policy to let Japanese know the damage done.

KIN CHAU CAPTURED.

London, June 30.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that severe fighting took place at Kin Chau on June 25, which resulted in the capture of that place on the morning of June 26.

London, June 30.—The Tokio correspondent of the Morning Post says that the Japanese second army has effected a junction with the first army and that the whole force now has a fighting front of 120 miles.

TORPEDO BOAT ESCAPED.

New Chwang, June 30.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer has arrived here from Port Arthur. It is probable the destroyer managed to elude the Japanese fleet and that she brought dispatches for St. Petersburg from the commander of the besieged troops at Port Arthur.

CUTTING OFF GENERAL.

Liao Yang, June 30.—General Kuroki having forced Moton Ling pass is advancing towards Liao Yang. Should he reach here he will have cut off the retreat of General Kuropatkin, who is at Hai Chang.

A Stradivarius violin was sold in London for $3,500.

JEWISH RABBIS FAVOR THE SYNOD

Report by Rabbi H. G. Enelow,
Formerly of Paducah.

No Action Taken on the Report of the Committee on the Question.

OTHER BUSINESS CONSIDERED

Rabbi H. G. Enelow, formerly of Paducah, is one of the most prominent men at the big conference of Jewish Rabbis in session this week in St. Louis. He read the report relative to the proposed Jewish synod before the conference yesterday, and while it was not acted on, it was evident it will be adopted. A Louisville Dispatch says:

The committee reported in favor of establishing a synod for the central government of the church, the most important step since the foundation of Reformed Judaism, the congregations having hitherto been practically independent.

Other business transacted included a report on the condition of the circuit work during the past ten months, by Director of Circuit Work Rabbi George Zepin, of Cincinnati. The report showed that as the result of circuit work during that time 43 congregations with 898 members and 742 children in the Sunday schools were organized. During the first year the new members paid in over $28,000, or about nine times the amount spent in circuit work.

Several important recommendations in the presidents' message were reported favorably to the conference by the committee appointed to canvass the document. The principal recommendations declaring against sectarianism in the public schools, and institutions of like character, was unanimously adopted, and a committee appointed to prepare literature and to otherwise combat such encroachments on the rights of American citizens.

The president's recommendation that laymen be admitted to membership in the conference was defeated, and the recommendation for biennial sessions was also voted down. Officers will be elected tomorrow after the report of the committee of synods has been disposed of. The conference will then adjourn.

ED BUTLER IS MAD AND GIVES UP GUTKE

The Boodler's Confession Implied
Democratic Boss.

Rumors Are Again Afloat at Washington of Pension Commissioner
Ware's Resignation.

YALE DEFEATED HARVARD

St. Louis, June 30.—Colonel Ed Butler, the millionaire Democratic boss, who furnished bond for the alleged and convicted boodlers today surrendered Charles Gutke, who confessed to implicating Butler in the boodle deals. Gutke was jailed and Butler was indicted today on a charge of compounding a felony.

RESIGNATION REPORTED AGAIN

Washington, June 30.—Pension Commissioner Ware has given up the lease of his Washington residence and rumors of his resignation are again heard about the department. It is understood his resignation has been in the hands of the president for some time.

FARVARD LOSES OUT.

New London, Conn., June 30.—Yale defeated Harvard in the freshmen boat race today. The other two races were postponed on account of bad weather.

CHAIN GANG UNDER DISCUSSION NOW

The Mayor Says Prisoners Will Still be Worked.

Advised By the City Solicitor to Keep it Up—Many Think the City Is in For it.

ARGUMENT PRO AND CON

Mayor D. A. Yeiser, acting on the advice of Solicitor Ed Puryear, stated this morning that the chain gang would continue working on the streets, and that he did not believe the courts would decide against the city when the suits brought against the city by Attorney J. M. Worten come to trial.

Mayor Yeiser stated that in his opinion the decision of the Georgia federal court rendered Tuesday regarding working prisoners on the streets, applies where a trial by jury has been denied.

"Any defendant can demand a trial by jury and get it in police court," he said, "and all who have made such demands in the Paducah police court have been tried by jury, consequently I think we are on the safe side."

City Solicitor Ed Puryear also was seen and agreed with the mayor. Attorney Puryear stated that the city prisoners had been regularly tried, and if they did not receive trials by jury it was because they did not demand it, and it was nobody's fault but their own.

Mayor Yeiser and the solicitor say they experience no uneasiness because of the numerous suits brought by Attorney J. M. Worten to secure damages from the city for prisoners worked on the street.

"While you are writing about the city hall and city prisoners," Mayor Yeiser smilingly remarked, "you may tell the people that I do not think the city is expected to board the prisoners at the Palmer, to be waited on by the prettiest girls in the city and fed the best dainties procurable. This charge in the suits of bad treatment to the prisoners in the way of unclean bedding and unwholesome food is all bush, and when the matter is brought into court, the bottom will fall out of the barrel with a suddenness sufficient to make some fellow's eyes bulge out."

There are a number of disinterested attorneys and others, however, who do not look at the case as the city officials. One said today:

"It is not, in my opinion, a question of jury or no jury. Punishment should always fit the crime. The principle of law is that the trivial offenses for which the prisoners are fined do not justify the severe punishment inflicted when they are put to work on the street. Whether there is a jury or not does not affect the justice or the injustice of the punishment. Paducah is one of the very few cities in the country that ever lid work prisoners on the street. I have seen strangers—excursionists and others—look in amazement at prisoners shambling along on the streets with ball and chain dangling behind them, and heard them exclaim: 'How many men have they killed? These prisoners not only have to work as hard,—often in the boiling sun or extreme cold—as felons in the penitentiary, but they are subject to

A FEDERAL JUDGE DEFINES CONTEMPT

Says Newspapers Have a Right to Criticise a Court.

Decision in a North Carolina Case
—Democrats Are Preparing to Kick Bryan Out.

A TOWN IS WIPED OUT

Ashville, N. C., June 30.—Judge Pritchard, of the federal court, has rendered an opinion relative to the freedom of the press that will be a precedent. It was in the case of Editor Daniels, who was fined $2000 for criticizing a federal judge. The court now holds that a newspaper editor cannot be in contempt of court by publishing a criticism. It says: "That newspapers sometimes engage in unwarranted criticisms of the courts cannot be denied. In some instances they construe the liberty of the press as a license to authorize them to engage in wholesale abuse of the court, but these instances are rare and do not warrant a departure from the well-settled principles of the law as declared by congress and construed by the courts."

"If judges charged with the administration of the law are not to be criticised on account of their official conduct, the liberty of the press is a bridge and the rights of individuals imperiled."

TO GIVE BRYAN THE SHAKE.

St. Louis, June 30.—The problem that now confronts the Democrats is how to get rid of Mr. Bryan and cut loose from him permanently, without offending the thousands of Democrats who are still loyal to him. It is expected that this point will be the first decided by the party leaders. Senator Gorman will probably be chairman of the committee on resolutions.

A TOWN WRECKED.

Texarkana, Texas, June 30.—The town of New Boston, twenty miles from here was wiped out by a tornado and several people are reported killed and injured.

public gaze and derision, which adds humiliation to hard labor. It is barbarous. The offenses do not justify it, and I believe the courts will so hold. A man can steal, shoot, cut, or even kill, and he is placed in jail where all he has to do is sit around and be fed twice a day, and when tried sent to the penitentiary, where he works in comfortable quarters perhaps not as hard as he did at home, gets plenty to eat, and often when he gets out goes right back again. If a man sleeps in a box car, however, or steals a dime, or gets drunk, he is sometimes attached to a ball and chain and made to drag it through the streets from a week to ninety days, an object of public derision, worse than a galley slave. Some of them don't deserve any sympathy, but a lot of them do. Some of them are merely unfortunate who are overtaken by adversity in a strange place, and being unable to pay fines are put to work on the street. I am defending those who do not deserve it, not those for whom nothing is too bad. The courts, however, will probably judge the case by those who may be imposed on by the practice, and who may have to suffer unjustly for it, not by those who do deserve to labor on the streets. Some people might be hanged in the street, and it could be said, 'serves him right, he deserved it.' But with many others it would be different, and these latter are the ones the courts have to protect."

The chain-gang matter has aroused a great deal of discussion in Paducah, and no one seems to attach any importance to the legal opinions of the city officials. Many people want the chain-gang abolished because it is barbarous, even if legal.

SCHWAB RESIGNS.

New York, June 30.—It is learned from an authoritative source that Charles M. Schwab has formally presented his resignation as a director in the U. S. steel corporation.

NEW MARKET HOUSE BUILT THIS YEAR

Board of Public Works to Ask for Bids.

The Board Threatens to Appoint an Inspector to Get Warrants For Sweeping Trash.

ABOUT SEWERAGE EXTENSION

The board of public works last night decided to build the new market house as soon as possible. It will advertise for bids from any architect who cares to compete, for an $18,000 brick structure, with concrete floor and slate roof, 300 feet long. Whether it will be one or two story remains to be decided after the plans are inspected. The remainder of the $25,000 for the market house will have to be used for the furnishings, sewerage connections, electric lights and such things. The board would like to extend the market house past Kentucky avenue as has been suggested, but hasn't the money and sees no prospect of getting it. Hence it will proceed to build a market house on the city's present site.

Last night the board notified the mayor that unless he or his police board enforced the ordinance prohibiting persons from brushing trash and other refuse onto the streets and sidewalks of the city, the board will appoint an inspector for the purpose and put him on the street pay roll. The members are very outspoken in their displeasure over the way the new ordinance, which was passed on their recommendation, has been ignored. The mayor stated last night that the order to enforce had been posted, but this does not satisfy the board. This morning ten clerks and porters were out on one block at one time sweeping dense clouds of dust across the pavements into the street and it is an every day occurrence. The board has authority to appoint a man to keep a lookout for such offenders and warrant them, and threatens to do it.

"That trash you see swept onto the street is very unhealthy, to begin with," declared one member of the board today, "and in addition, the paper and other refuse swept and thrown into the streets and gutters every day clogs the gutters and stops up the stormwater sewerage, and we want it stopped. The ordinance has been passed to stop it, and we want it enforced. We hate to have to pay a man just to attend to it when we have so many police officers, but we intend to do it if the ordinance is not enforced."

The board decided to recommend to the general council ordinances to at once lay the storm water sewerage on Kentucky avenue from Fifth to Ninth streets in order that the ground may settle before the paving begins.

There is no hope now of arranging for any street sprinkling this year in Paducah, or of procuring the oil necessary to experiment with oiled streets, as Lexington is doing with so much satisfaction. The board hopes next year to have more money with which to carry out its ideas of public improvement.

The matter of paving Third street did not come up last night, as it has passed from the hands of the board. The latter has recommended the work and says that it is up to the council to pass the necessary ordinances for the work. It will probably not come up before the board again unless the ordinance is passed and it becomes necessary to advertise for bids.

The urgent necessity for extending the sanitary sewerage out West Broadway was discussed, and it was decided to ask the city engineer for a survey and estimates of cost. It has been asked that the sewerage be extended from Ninth and Kentucky to 11th, thence out to the new school and possibly to Fountain avenue. The only difficulty is the cost, as it seems to be the general opinion that not over $1 a

PROMINENT CITIZEN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mr. W. W. Powell Died in St.
Louis Last Night.

Was Ill Many Weeks From Typhoid Fever and Was Carried to St.
Louis For Treatment.

REMAINS ARRIVE THIS EVENING

Mr. W. W. Powell, secretary and treasurer of the Paducah City Railway Company, and one of the most prominent citizens of Paducah, died in the Baptist Sanitarium in St. Louis, at 6:25 o'clock last night.

Mr. Powell had been ill for eight weeks from typhoid fever, and was taken to St. Louis several days ago, with the hope of benefit, but his condition was pronounced hopeless by the St. Louis physicians. He was in the I. C. hospital for four weeks previous to going to St. Louis, and while he was in a critical state from the first, it was hoped until two weeks ago, that he might get well. The trip to St. Louis was adopted as a last resort. Mrs. Powell accompanied him.

Mr. Powell was 60 years of age and was born in Louisville. He was a son of the late Dr. Llewellyn Powell, one of Louisville's most prominent physicians. He came to Paducah about 25 years ago. He was for a long while local agent for the old C. O. & S. W. railroad, predecessor of the I. C. After leaving the railroad service, he was in the insurance business for a number of years with Mr. R. E. Ashbrook. For the past few years he has been connected with the street railway company.

He was married here April 16, 1884, to Miss Mamie Dallam, who with five children survives him. He left three daughters, Misses Letitia, Katherine and Lucia Powell, and two sons, William and Lawrence Powell. Two brothers, Mr. Charles Powell, of Austin, Texas, and Mr. Thomas E. Powell, of Montgomery, Ala., and three sisters, Mrs. M. B. Nash, of this city, Mrs. J. W. Williamson, of St. Louis, and Miss Fannie Powell, of Louisville, also survived him.

The remains will arrive from St. Louis at 7:30 o'clock this evening. No funeral arrangements will be made until then.

Mr. Powell was one of the gentlest and most lovable of men. He was especially endeared to his own family and to those who knew him best, and was universally popular. He was a member of Grace Episcopal church and was ever devoted to its interests. His death is a great loss to his family, his friends and the community.

SAFE BLOWER

MAN WITH BURGLAR TOOLS
CAUGHT AT MT. VERNON.

Mt. Vernon, Ky., June 30.—A stranger with burglar tools and nitroglycerine was captured here last night. He is charged with robbing the Livingston postoffice, and refused to talk.

CLEANED GUNS.

Patrol Driver John Austin today took out all the city Winchester guns and gave them a thorough cleaning and oiling. The guns were rusting and needed attention. There are more than 50 of these guns.

Hamburg—King Edward paid his promised visit to Hamburg and met with a most cordial reception from the authorities and big crowds of the inhabitants.

foot can be charged property owners, and the sewerage cannot be extended for less than $2 a foot. It is proposed to run the sewerage to Madison street from Fountain avenue, should it be decided to extend that far out.

The board has decided that the practice of leaving buggies out on the street after nightfall must be stopped and will ask for an ordinance covering the case.

Cairo yesterday won from Paducah by a score of 4 to 3, making three out of the last five games played, but only four out of eleven played this season. Quite a crowd was at the park to witness the contest, which rain stopped for twenty minutes in the third inning. Wilder for Cairo and McGill for Paducah did the box work, and neither broke any records. Wilder struck out 7, gave six bases on balls and hit two batters. The trouble was Paducah couldn't bunch hits.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Shortstop Boylan has been released by Clarksville, and Henry Harris will play the position. Clarksville has signed pitcher Doll, released by Cairo.

Piepho has been elected captain of the Hopkinsville club.

Setley called "fowl" on a long drive of Harvey's to right field yesterday and Captain Rutledge, of the Cairo team, who was sitting on the bench in citizens' clothes, questioned the decision and was speedily ejected from the park.

"Time" was called twice yesterday by Setley on account of rain. The game was delayed about 25 minutes by this and the accident to Catcher Harvey.

Yesterday's game was Cairo's from the very start when the locals failed to find Wilder when the hits were needed most.

Cairo players have gotten Crotty up in the air by constant beefing. Crotty is a good infielder and a few errors shouldn't call forth so many complaints from the pitching staff.

The lineup of the Indians will remain as yesterday, Potts at short, Sherman at second with McGill and Brady alternating in the field.

Paducah is short of pitchers but the management is looking about for a good twirler and will have him here in a few days.

One thing Cairo has the best of Paducah on is pitchers. Wilder, Waggoner, Holycross and Bittorff are pitchers far above the average and Wilder probably excels. His work yesterday was phenomenal in many ways although the Indians did pile up a few hits and the little twirler walked six men. Paducah has Cairo out-classed in fielding, however, which is admitted.

Catcher Harvey ran into the Paducah team's bench yesterday after a fly fowl and was badly bruised about the legs. He continued the game, however.

Clarksville is strengthening and will make trouble again for the top notch teams.

NEW GAUGER

Mr. W. H. Overby, Popular Gauger Transferred to Uniontown

Mr. J. W. Furnish Sent to Paducah as Result of Regular Changes.

Mr. W. H. Overby, the government whiskey gauger who has been stationed here for several months, has been transferred to Uniontown, Ky, and Mr. J. W. Furnish, of Uniontown, has been transferred to Paducah and will arrive tomorrow.

The government transfers its gaugers about every sixty days, because of the federal rules and regulations and rarely ever does a gauger remain in one town longer than three months. Some times a transfer is made every thirty days and a gauger does not know when he will be ordered to some other town.

Mr. Overby made many friends here and is the nominee of the Republican party for congress from the second district.

FELL FROM POLE.

Lineman Ed Price, of the East Tennessee Telephone company, fell about twelve feet to the ground yesterday afternoon while coming down a pole on Kentucky avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets. One of the spikes that are used as steps gave away and he fell to the pavement. Dr. Bass was called and found that the young man was suffering only from bruises.

TOMORROW NOW THE DAY.

Judge Lightfoot this morning ordered a jury empaneled to try Fred Hellyer for lunacy. Hellyer has been in jail more than two weeks and does not know that he is being held for lunacy. He will be tried tomorrow.

GILLIGAN NOT YET BACK IN THE GAME

Paducah Club Did Not Take Him Yesterday.

He Has Hopes of Being Put Back Sunday When the Club Returns.

THE FANS WANT HIM BACK

Short Stop Gilligan did not go with the Paducah team to Henderson last night but will remain here until Sunday when he will be reinstated, it is said.

President Jackson yesterday evening declined to reinstate Gilligan so he could go with the team but told him he supposed he would place him back in the game Sunday when Paducah returns here for the Fourth of July game. Gilligan has received dozens of offers since it became known that he had been suspended, many managers thinking he had been released, and if Gilligan could get his release could secure positions on any team in the league or in other leagues.

While the majority of the fans approve of President Jackson's determination to enforce discipline, they dislike to see Gilligan out of the game, and have urged President Jackson to reinstate him. Gilligan realizes that his position is not a pleasant one and that his future for the remainder of the season as far as league ball is concerned, lies with President Jackson. The lesson will serve, President Jackson thinks, as a warning to other headstrong members of the team.

President Jackson stated this afternoon, however, that he had decided not to take Gilligan back. "Gilligan," he said, "will not go back in the Paducah club. This is settled."

BLOWING OFF DUST

Unusual Operation in Progress at the I. C. Shop.

Sawdust Removed From the Building's Interior to Improve the Light.

This morning the foreman of the woodworking department of the local Illinois Central shops took advantage of the shut down, necessitated by the repairs to the big engine which runs the machinery, and put several men to work blowing the dust and dirt off the rafters and beams in the mill building. Fine saw dust accumulates on the rafters and when it becomes dirty makes the mill a great deal darker. All posts, rafters and beams are white washed, which improves the light. Another reason the rafters are kept free of accumulated dust is by reason of danger from fire. When the mill burned before, the fine saw dust on the rafters burned like powder and hastened the destruction of the building.

BURIAL AT OAK GROVE.

The remains of Mr. William Hendricks, who died yesterday at his home in Cairo, were brought here this morning at 7:30 o'clock over the I. C. The body was carried directly from the train to Oak Grove, where funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. W. Perryman of the First Baptist church.

MANY NEW HOUSES GO UP IN PADUCAH

Three Hundred and Fifty Since Jan. 1st.

The Growth Is Rapid, Especially in Mechanicsburg and Fountain Avenue Districts.

NEW MAIL CARRIER WANTED

Some idea of the rapid growth of Paducah may be obtained from the fact that since January 1st of this year 350 dwelling houses have been erected, or are in course of erection in the mail carrier districts of the city.

These figures were compiled by the Paducah mail carriers in pursuance of orders from the department, and are to be used in an effort to secure an additional mail carrier for Paducah. There are at present ten carriers and two substitutes, but the city is spreading out so rapidly that these are not enough, and it is desired to increase the delivery facilities.

The houses mentioned above have been built largely in Mechanicsburg, in "Jersey," and in the Fountain Avenue district. Some of them are not very costly, but they are all dwellings, and are for families. Superintendent of Carriers Ashton thinks that the average is four to a family, and thinks that these houses represent an increase of population of fully 1000 since the first of the year, as there are empty houses to be obtained in the city.

The rush is not over, either. Many other houses are contemplated, and there is a constant demand for dwellings of moderate rental.

One fact in connection with these new houses is that probably not fifty of the owners have secured building permits for them. The law in regard to the latter is never enforced.

The increase in Paducah's assessment in September will be materially aided by these new houses. Most of the structures are where vacant lots stood when the assessment was made last year, and the value of the total improvements will help out considerably.

The routes of the mail carriers, especially those in the suburbs, have to be constantly enlarged in order to take in new dwellings inside the corporate limits, and it is necessary now to have additional facilities for better handling the mail. It is believed that the department will authorize a new carrier for next year.

KILLED BY CARS

Carpenter on the Construction Gang Loses Life.

First Serious Accident at the Tennessee River Bridge.

John Rogers, a carpenter employed by the Walsh Construction Company, which is doing the excavating for the Illinois Central bridge at Tennessee river, was killed yesterday by a train.

Rogers was at Gravel Switch, and walking in front of a out of cars which were being switched about. The cars struck him, knocked him to the ground and the wheels passed over his body. He lived in Minneapolis, Minn., and the remains will be shipped there for burial.

This is the first serious or fatal accident to happen at the bridge since it was started.

DEATH OF A CHILD.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Moore, of 1802 Tennessee street, aged ten days, died late yesterday afternoon. The burial took place this afternoon from the residence. Rev. W. H. Pinkerton conducted the service and the burial was at Oak Grove.

With interesting ceremonies the West Virginia building at the world's fair was dedicated.

WORKING PRISONERS ON THE STREETS.

All judges may not regard the chain gang as such a sinister institution as does the Georgia federal judge, and the Georgia decision may not affect any of the questions or principles of law involved in the Paducah cases. But suppose the courts trying these damage suits against the city of Paducah for working prisoners on the streets should happen—just "happen" you know,—to be of similar mind, or should find that no law justifies the city in working prisoners on the streets, what would be the result?

There will be fully half a million dollars worth of these suits, according to the attorney employed to bring them, and if one, wins every other prisoner who has been worked on the street, and has not already done so, will break his neck to file a damage suit,—and the city is still working prisoners every day.

It may be well for the administration to pause in its mad and extravagant career long enough to ask itself if it is justified in running the risk.

City officials claim there is nothing in these suits, and it is to be hoped for the good of the city, that there is not; but the same officials made the same claim in the bond suits, the injunctions, the damage suits, the license ordinance suits, and every other suit the city has lost in recent years, and they were backed up by the city solicitors, which shows that the city's claims have nothing to do with the law or facts in the case.

A thing the city has needed for years, and should have had long ago, is a workhouse, and it is due only to the wanton and inexcusable indifference and neglect of city officials, that Paducah has none. For several years our officials put off establishing badly needed fire stations, on the plea that the city hadn't the money to spare, but this year, when insurance rates were increased and the "pink slip" began costing the property owners thousands of dollars a year more for insurance, a howl went up that quickly persuaded the officials to act, and to act quickly, and although there was no appropriation for it, two fire stations have been built and equipped.

Unless the municipal wisecracks know the law better than many attorneys, and have advance information as to what the courts are going to decide in these cases, it might be well for them to dispense with the chain gang until they get their bearings and can build a workhouse.

St. Louis will probably remain Republican for a good many years to come. In the confession of one of the hoodlums, he states that the Democratic "combine" plundered everything possible, and is not satisfied, but is still trying to get control of everything. He warns the people of St. Louis that knowing, as they now do, just what sort of men they have been electing to office, if they have legislation bartered and sold like cattle or merchandise in the future it will be no more than they deserve.

General Miles is quoted as saying in regard to the Prohibition nomination for president—"it would not carry with it the opportunity for beneficial results which would be his only reason for returning to official life." General Miles has probably counted the vote.

State Insurance Commissioner Previtt is busy getting up reports and telling how rebating has been stopped, but nothing more has ever been heard from his colossal bluff about revoking agents' licenses for refusing to answer his impertinent questions about their private business.

Much damage has been done in the Northwestern states, according to government reports, by frost. But there'll be more damage than that by "frost" to the political ambitions of Mr. Bryan and other Democrats next week in St. Louis.

It is a great relief to learn that Senator Gorman has "not been a party to any arrangement for effecting a combination to obstruct the efforts of any candidate for the nomination." It was feared he had arranged to nominate himself at St. Louis.

The job printers' strike in Louisville, after thirteen weeks, has ended by the employers enforcing the "open shop" rule. It cost the unions about $15,000 and the employers between $100,000 and $150,000.

Former Mayor Duncan has been indicted at Lexington, Ky., for some of his declarations about alleged mismanagement and malfeasance among some of the county officials. But this does not exonerate the county officials.

Paducah Man Honored By a London Magazine.

This month's issue of the Strand Magazine, London, England, contains a picture of the "King of Harts," the tin man built by Mr. George B. Hart, of the firm of George O. Hart & Son, Paducah, and displayed in a parade here a year or two ago.

The picture was taken by a resident of Ohio who thought the idea unique. The Strand Magazine prints curiosities in the way of photographs and accepted this one. Mr. Hart is given credit for building "the man," and it is quite a tribute to his ability as an advertiser.

NEW PITCHERS

Enlivened in the Southern League Yesterday.

Freeman Let The Atlanta Club Down With Five Hits.

Jim Freeman, of the Paducah K. I. T. team, who is with Nashville, of the Southern league, on trial, pitched his first game yesterday at Atlanta, Ga., and let his opponents down with five hits.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal of today says:

Atlanta, June 29.—Local fans had opportunity to pass judgment on a product of the Alabama-Tennessee league today when "M. and O." Bridges, formerly a student of Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., but later a pitcher on Columbia's team in the Alabama-Tennessee league, made his debut with Manager Powell's rejuvenated collection. The young collegian towered over everything on the diamond, being over six feet tall and weighing over 200 pounds. He let Nashville down with four hits and aided materially in Atlanta's run getting by smashing at opportune times.

Little less than 2,000 people cheered Bridges on in his work. Eugene Demontreville said after the game that he considered Bridges a remarkable twirler with a possibility of succeeding to a career similar to that of Christy Mathewson. The collegian, though young in years, is a giant in every way, being a great shot putter, a football player and a speedy man in a 100 yard sprint.

Bridges was opposed by Freeman, until recently a Paducah pitcher in the Kitty league. Freeman held the locals down to five hits, and the general opinion here is that both Freeman and Bridges will make teams facing them in the future bustle to win. Demontreville stole home in the fourth.

CHIEF COLLINS ISSUES ORDERS ABOUT SWEEPING DUST.

Mayor Yeiser has issued instructions to the Chief of Police James Collins to see that all ordinances against vehicles carrying garbage through the streets and against persons sweeping dirt and refuse matter into the gutter, streets or on pavements and repairs to sidewalks and streets are rigidly enforced. Mayor Yeiser received a letter from the board of public works saying that much complaint had been made of violations of these ordinances and the mayor is determined to have the law enforced. Chief Collins has issued instructions to his men and if there is any more sweeping of dust into the gutters or out of stores onto the pavement, the proprietors will be warranted.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR OHIO RIVER

Col. Vance Thinks Work Will be Pushed.

The Improvement Association Is to Rush the Survey Project.

THE CONVENTION IN NOVEMBER

Louisville, Ky., June 30.—Colonel John L. Vance, of Columbus, O., president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, who is in the city, stated that the tenth annual convention of the association would be held in Huntington, W. Va., November 16-18. Colonel Vance is interested in securing a large attendance at the convention and in arousing enthusiasm in the work of the association in Louisville.

The association is particularly interested in securing an appropriation for raising the dam at Louisville. This can be done at an inconsiderable expense and it will give deeper water throughout the year as far up as Madison, Ind. Other ends for which Colonel Vance and the association are striving are to secure the completion of the survey of the Ohio river from the mouth of the Big Miami to Cairo, the building of a dam below Henderson, Ky., and two locks and dams on the upper Ohio, one below the mouth of the Big Kanawha and the other below the mouth of the Big Sandy.

Colonel Vance stated that the influence of Kentucky communities and representatives and senators was necessary not only to secure these appropriations, but also to hasten work already provided for. "There has been necessary delay on the Cullen Ripple dam, to be built between Cincinnati and Louisville, and other locks and dams provided for have not been pushed," said Colonel Vance. "The citizens of Kentucky should lend their influence to the work of the association, particularly when it is remembered that its work just now is in the interest of the improvement of the lower Ohio. We are making strenuous efforts to secure the Henderson dam. No executive officer of the association is on a salary, and practically all the money raised is devoted directly toward securing river and harbor improvements. Our plans should appeal, therefore, to the business men of Louisville and Kentucky."

Colonel Vance was enthusiastic in praise of the work of Representatives Sherley, Stanley and Kehoe at Washington in behalf of Ohio river improvement, saying that Mr. Sherley especially was making a strong fight to secure an appropriation for raising the Louisville dam.

POLICE COURT

Small Boys Charged With Petty Theft Dismissed.

Judge Sanders Recommends Whipping Post For Incurable Boys.

Judge Sanders held a brief session of police court this morning, having but three cases before him.

Dr. William Hardwick, white, was granted a continuance in a breach of the peace case.

Lula Reed, colored, charged with a breach of the peace was granted a continuance.

Gene Scott and John Stewart, two colored boys of about 6 and 10 years of age, were arraigned for stealing bottles from Laevison. Scott is the boy who created excitement last winter in front of the Kentucky by getting drunk and crawling about on his hands and knees and acting like a dog. He later ran away and was arrested. His mother can do nothing with him and Judge Sanders, in lecturing the boys, regretted that a whipping post could not be established and such boys soundly lashed. He dismissed the case against them.

The Blazed Trail

By STEWART
EDWARD WHITE

Copyright, 1902, by Stewart Edward White

The Indian without further ceremony threw his pack to the ground, and, squatting on his heels, watched the white man's preparations. When the meal was cooked he coolly produced a knife, selected a clean bit of hemlock bark and helped himself. Then he lit a pipe and gazed keenly at him.

"What you do?" he inquired after a long silence, punctuated by the puffs of tobacco.

"Hunt, trap, fish," replied Thorpe, with equal sententiousness.

"Good," concluded the Indian after a ruminative pause.

That night he slept on the ground. Next day he made a better shelter than

"How do?" greeted the newcomer.

Thorpe's less than half the time and was off hunting before the sun was an hour high. He was armed with an old fashioned smooth bore muzzle loader, and Thorpe was astonished after he had become better acquainted with his new companion's method to find that he hunted deer with fine bird shot. The Indian never expected to kill or even mortally wound his game, but he would follow for miles the blood drops caused by his little wounds until the animals in sheer exhaustion allowed him to approach close enough for a dispatching blow. At 2 o'clock he returned with a small buck, tied scientifically together for tiding, with the waste parts cut away, but every ounce of utility retained.

"I show," said the Indian, and he did. Thorpe learned the Indian tan.

The Indian appeared to intend making the birch knoll his permanent headquarters. Thorpe was at first a little suspicious of his new companion, but the man appeared scrupulously honest, was never intrusive and even seemed genuinely desirous of teaching the white little tricks of the woods brought to their perfection by the Indian alone. He ended by liking him. The two rarely spoke. They merely sat near each other and smoked. One evening the Indian suddenly remarked:

"You look 'um tree?"

"What's that?" cried Thorpe, startled.

"No hunter, no trapper. You look 'um tree for make 'um lumber."

"What makes you think that, Charley?" he asked.

"You good man in woods," replied Injun Charley sententiously. "I tell by way you look at him pine."

Thorpe ruminated.

"Charley," said he, "why are you staying here with me?"

"Big friend," replied the Indian promptly.

"Why are you my friend? What have I ever done for you?"

"You got 'um chief's eye," replied his companion, with simplicity.

Thorpe looked at the Indian again. There seemed to be only one course.

"Yes, I'm a lumberman," he confessed, "and I'm looking for pine. But, Charley, the men up the river must not know what I'm after."

"They got 'um pine," interjected the Indian like a flash.

"Exactly," replied Thorpe, surprised at the other's perspicacity.

"Good!" exclaimed Injun Charley and fell silent.

With this, the longest conversation the two had attempted in their peculiar acquaintance, Thorpe was forced to be content.

Three days later he was intensely thankful the conversation had taken place.

After the noon meal he lay on his blanket under the hemlock shelter, smoking and lazily watching Injun Charley busy over the making of a birch bark canoe.

"So idly intent was Thorpe on this piece of construction that he did not notice the approach of two men from the down stream side. They were short, alert men, plodding along with the knee-bent persistence of the wood walker, dressed in broad hats, flannel shirts, coarse trousers tucked in high laced "crucifers" and carrying each a bulging meal sack looped by a cord across the shoulders and chest. Both were armed with long slender scalers' rules. The first intimation Thorpe received of the presence of these two men was the sound of their voices.

"Hello, Charley!" said one of them. "What you doing here? Ain't seen you since the Sturgeon district?"

"Mak' 'um canoe," replied Charley rather obviously.

"So I see. But what do you expect to get in this God forsaken country?"

"Beaver, muskrat, mink, otter."

"Trapping, eh?" the man gazed keenly at Thorpe's recumbent figure. "Who's the other fellow?"

Thorpe held his breath, then exhaled it in a long sigh of relief.

"Him white man," Injun Charley was replying. "Him hunt too. He mak' 'um buckskin."

The land looker arose lazily and sauntered toward the group.

"Howdy?" he drawled. "Got any smokin'?"

"How are you?" replied one of the scalers, eying him sharply and tendering his pouch. Thorpe filled his pipe deliberately and returned it with a heavy lidded glance of thanks. To all appearances he was one of the lazy, shiftless hunters of the backwoods. Seized with an inspiration, he said:

"What sort of chances is they at your camp for a little flour? Me and Charley's about out. I'll bring you meat, or I'll make you boys moccasins. I got some good buckskin."

It was the usual proposition.

"Pretty good, I guess. Come up and see," advised the scaler. "The crew's right behind us."

"I'll send Charley," drawled Thorpe. "I'm busy now makin' traps." He waved his pipe, calling attention to the pine and rawhide deadfalls.

They chatted a few moments. Then two wagons creaked lurching by, followed by fifteen or twenty men. The last of these, evidently the foreman, was joined by the two scalers.

Injun Charley was setting about the splitting of a cedar log.

"You see," he remarked. "I big friend."

In the days that followed Thorpe cruised about the great woods. It was slow business, but fascinating. He knew that when he should embark on his attempt to enlist considerable capital in an "unsight, unseen" investment he would have to be well supplied with statistics.

First of all he walked over the country at large to find where the best timber lay. This was a matter of tramping, though often on an elevation he succeeded in climbing a tall tree whence he caught birdseye views of the country at large. He always carried his gun with him and was prepared at a moment's notice to seem engaged in hunting.

Next he ascertained the geographical location of the different clumps and forests, entering the sections, the quarter sections, even the separate forties. In his notebook, taking in only the "descriptions" containing the best pine.

Finally he wrote accurate notes concerning the topography of each and every pine district—the lay of the land, the hills, ravines, swamps and valleys, the distance from the river, the character of the soil. In short, he accumulated all the information he could by which the cost of logging might be estimated.

For this he had really too little experience. He knew it, but determined to do his best. The weak point of his whole scheme lay in that it was going to be impossible for him to allow the prospective purchaser a chance to examine the pine. That difficulty Thorpe hoped to overcome by inspiring personal confidence in himself. If he failed to do so he might return with a land looker whom the investor trusted, and the two could re-enact the comedy of this summer. Thorpe hoped, however, to avoid the necessity. He set about a rough estimate of the timber.

One evening just at sunset Thorpe was helping the Indian shape his craft. The two men bent there at their task, the dull glow of evening falling upon them. Behind them the knoll stood out in picturesque relief against the darker pines. The river rushed by with a never ending roar and turmoil. Through its shouting one perceived, as through a mist, the still lofty peace of evening.

A young fellow, hardly more than a boy, exclaimed with keen delight of the picturesque as his canoe shot around the bend into sight of it.

"Everybody has his little peculiarities," said the broad-minded man. "I don't doubt that you have your own way of looking at some things."

"My dear sir," answered Mr. Meekton, "I wish you wouldn't talk about my having my own way in that off-handed manner. Henrietta might hear you."

NAPOLEON, As Seen by His Associates

HIS NOTABLE OFFHAND SAYINGS

[Copyright, 1904, by G. L. Kilmer.]

XIX.

"I T is certain that I gave that man Wellington a terrible quarter of an hour," said Napoleon at St. Helena, recalling some of the incidents of Waterloo. "This usually constitutes a claim on noble minds. His was incapable of feeling it," he added bitterly, believing that his conqueror was responsible for the imprisonment at St. Helena.

The year before Waterloo the French troops surprised the allied camp at Brienne, and Marshal Blucher narrowly escaped capture. Napoleon supposed for a moment that the redoubtable Prussian had been taken. "We have got that old swashbuckler," said he. "Now the campaign will not be long."

On the Russian campaign he exclaimed one day: "I have only one enemy, England, and it is her I am striving to reach in Russia. I will pursue her everywhere."

Rebuking babblers, he would exclaim, "I want more head and less tongue!"

"Those who are in the wrong in a quarrel are sure to be most angry."

"Men are not truly great unless they leave great institutions after them."

"For a retreating enemy it is necessary to make a bridge of gold or oppose a wall of brass."

At Borodino one of Napoleon's generals reported that he had not taken any prisoners because the Russian soldiers preferred death to surrender.

"Let the artillery be brought forward!" he exclaimed. Cannon would do the work of extermination with less trouble and expense than muskets.

"Constantinople! That is the conquest of the world."

At the battle of Montebello, Napoleon pointed the pieces of artillery himself, recklessly exposed himself to the enemy's fire and said to his soldiers, who were much alarmed at his danger and attempted to remove him: "Let me alone, my friends. The bullet which is to kill me has not yet been molded."

Speaking of his generals who had been killed in battle, Napoleon often remarked, "Such a one is happy in having died on the field of honor, while I shall perhaps be so unfortunate as to die in my bed."

"Above all, no pillage; you will answer for it with your head," was Napoleon's order to General Mortier on appointing him military governor of Moscow.

Referring to General Ordener, who was fifty years old at the time of Austerlitz, Napoleon said: "Ordener is worn out. There is only one time for military achievements in a man's life. I shall be good six years longer, and the empire for acting adversely to his rule. On dismissing the members he said: "What! Who are you? Nothing! All authority is in the throne, and what is the throne? This wooden frame covered with velvet? No; I am the throne! Go! France stands more in need of me than I do of France."

"The Bourbons offer me a statue," he said. Marquis de Lafayette, "but I must look to the pedestal. They may make it my prison."

"I have created princes and dukes out of nobodies and given them large estates, but I could not make real noblemen of them."

"Those who have wrought great changes in the world never succeed by gaining over chiefs, but always by inciting the multitude. The first is the resource of intrigue and produces only secondary results; the second is the resort of genius and transforms the face of the universe."

"I set foot on an abyss concealed by a bed of flowers."

"The best troops were the Carthaginians under Hannibal, the Romans under the Scipios, the Macedonians under Alexander and the Prussians under Frederick."

"It is necessary to have much silver in order to draw gold out of genius."

"Imagination, like the turbulent Danube, may be curbed at its source."

Asked by Mme. de Stael who was the greatest woman in the world, living or dead, Napoleon answered, "She who has borne the most children."

In a casual discussion at St. Helena some one observed that in China the emperor is worshipped as a god. "That is as it should be," said Napoleon quickly.

"People are more attached to those to whom they have accorded benefits than to those from whom they have received benefits."

During the retreat from Waterloo, Napoleon, accompanied by a single aid-de-camp, chanced upon a bivouac fire where the soldiers were boiling potatoes. He asked for one, and while eating it said meditatively: "After all, it is endurable. Man may live in any place and in any way."

Discussing the conduct of General Moreau, who he declared was governed by his wife, he added, "This is always a great misfortune, because a man in that case is neither himself nor his wife; he is nothing."

Speaking of Catherine II. of Russia, he said, "She was a commanding woman, worthy to have a beard on her chin."

"Should there arise an emperor of Russia, valiant, impetuous and intelligent—in a word, a czar with a beard on his chin—Europe is his own."

"Democracy may be furious, but it has some heart; it may be moved. As to aristocracy, it is always cold and unforgiving."

After his rejection by the Council of the Ancients and an attempt upon his life he said, "They do not know, then, that I am invulnerable; that I am the god of thunder."

"God has given it to me. Let him who touches it beware!" he exclaimed when placing upon his own brow the "crown of Charlemagne."

"I did not strive to subject circumstances to my ideas, but I in general suffered myself, on the contrary, to be led by them, and who can calculate beforehand the chances of accidental circumstances or unexpected events?"

I have, therefore, often found it necessary to alter essentially my plan of proceeding and have acted through life upon general principles rather than according to fixed plans. The mass of the general interests of mankind—what I considered to be the advantage of the greater number—such were the anchors on which I relied, but around which I most frequently floated at the caprice of chance."

"He who believes that a hundred years hence a fine poem of even a line in one will recall a great action of his own or that a painting will commemorate it has his imagination fired by that idea. The battlefield has no dangers; the cannon roars in vain. To him it is only that sound which a thousand years hence will carry a brave man's name to the ears of our distant descendants."

To agents on mission: "Come, sir, be speedy, use dispatch, and do not forget that the world was created in six days."

One excused himself for an unfinished task by saying that he had worked all day. "But had you not the night also?"

Alluding to one of his unfortunate decisions: "I could do nothing in that case. I suffered myself to be moved, and I yielded. There I was wrong. A statesman's heart should be in his head."

"Tragedy warms the heart and elevates the mind. It does and should create heroes."

"When a man knows his moral infirmity he may cure his mind just as he would cure his arm or leg."

"What makes me believe that there is not a God who punishes and rewards is to see that honest men are always unlucky and rascals lucky. You'll see that Talleyrand will die in his bed."

Napoleon considered Talleyrand one of those "rascals" he would consign to a miserable end.

The Abbe de Pradt relates that on one occasion, after a violent scene, Napoleon came to him and said: "You thought me terribly angry? Undeceive yourself; with me anger never goes beyond this." And he passed his hand across his throat, thus indicating that his passion never rose high enough to disturb his head.

The great Chateaubriand one day made a veiled attack upon Napoleon in an address before the institute, saying, among other things, "In vain a Nero triumphs; Tacitus is already born in his empire." On hearing of this Napoleon exclaimed: "What! Does Chateaubriand think I am a fool and that I do not know what he means? If he goes on this way I'll have him sabred on the steps of the Tuilleries."

Before Napoleon's formal election as Consul, yet while he was exercising supreme power in France, the chiefs of the directory proposed that he continue to lead the army with the rank and dignity of generalissimo. "I will remain in Paris!" exclaimed Napoleon with vivacity, biting his nails. "I am Consul!"

One of the directory then spoke of the necessity of placing restrictions upon power by absorbing the executive in the senate. "That shall not be!" cried Napoleon in a rage, stamping his feet. "We will rather wade to our knees in blood."

The Abbe de Pradt relates that on one occasion, after a violent scene, Napoleon came to him and said: "You thought me terribly angry? Undeceive yourself; with me anger never goes beyond this." And he passed his hand across his throat, thus indicating that his passion never rose high enough to disturb his head.

The great Chateaubriand one day made a veiled attack upon Napoleon in an address before the institute, saying, among other things, "In vain a Nero triumphs; Tacitus is already born in his empire." On hearing of this Napoleon exclaimed: "What! Does Chateaubriand think I am a fool and that I do not know what he means? If he goes on this way I'll have him sabred on the steps of the Tuilleries."

Before Napoleon's formal election as Consul, yet while he was exercising supreme power in France, the chiefs of the directory proposed that he continue to lead the army with the rank and dignity of generalissimo. "I will remain in Paris!" exclaimed Napoleon with vivacity, biting his nails. "I am Consul!"

One of the directory then spoke of the necessity of placing restrictions upon power by absorbing the executive in the senate. "That shall not be!" cried Napoleon in a rage, stamping his feet. "We will rather wade to our knees in blood."

SUDDEN DIZZINESS

CAUSES MR. THOMAS ROBIOU TO FALL AND PAINFULLY INJURE HIMSELF.

Mr. Thomas Robiou was attacked by vertigo this morning about 8 o'clock near the James P. Sleeth drug store, Ninth and Broadway, and fell to the ground.

A deep gash was inflicted in the right side of the head and his face and body received bruises and abrasions. He was assisted to his feet and taken into the drug store and Dr. Jeff D. Robertson summoned. The injuries proved to be slight and Mr. Robiou was able to walk home.

Mr. Robiou has not been very well for the past several days and was feeling faint this morning. His many friends will be glad to learn the accident was not serious.

NEGRO TRAMP

Throws Away His Banjo So He Can Run Better.

Officer Hurley had Hot Chase After Man Who Stole a Ride.

Officer Aaron Hurley, of the depot bent, made a negro tramp throw his banjo away this morning about 1:30 o'clock when the Memphis and Louisville fast passenger train pulled into the station. When the train pulled into the station Officer Hurley noticed a negro riding the blind baggage and another riding the "logs." He got out his gun to scare the "hobos" and they started out on a dead run, neck and neck. One had a banjo and when Officer Hurley shot the first time made a greater spurt of speed. The next shot fired served to cause one to discard his banjo, which he threw from him as far as he could send it.

The instrument was picked up by a depot employe and is at the depot. The negroes have not returned for the banjo.

The tramps were no doubt green ones as a slick tramp who has beaten his way very many times never goes into a depot on the blind baggage or the trucks, but gets off at the nearest water tank or coal chute and walks in the rest of the way.

DIED IN OHIO COUNTY.

News of the death of Mr. William Foster, who is well known here, at his home in Hartford, Ky., has reached this city. He was 85 years of age and was one of the most prominent citizens of Ohio county. He left a large family of children.

The body of a stylishly dressed young woman, who evidently had been murdered, was found in the Mississippi river at St. Paul, Minn.

KENTUCKY COUPLE

Married in the World's Fair Building.

The Bride Is From Salem, Livingston County.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—The Kentucky building at the World's Fair set another precedent yesterday. A marriage ceremony was performed, the first in any state building at 4 o'clock, in the ladies' reception parlors.

At that time Miss Susie Boyd, of Salem, Ky., became the bride of J. R. Willett, of Brandenburg. The Rev. E. Leland Atwood, of Clinton, tied the nuptial knot.

Mr. Willett was chairman of the Meade County World's Fair Committee under the old Kentucky Exhibit Association. Prof. Charles Evans, of Marion, Ky., was master of ceremonies at the wedding. The important event was scheduled for 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning, but the bride's trunk was lost for a few hours, hence the postponement.

NO FIREARMS

Strict Orders to be Issued the Police for July 4th.

Blank Cartridges Cannot Be Used For Any Purpose.

The police commissioners have decided that no fire arms of any description may be used in celebrating the Fourth of July. Guns, pistols or other firearms will be strictly prohibited either with blank or any other kind of loads. Chief Collins has been instructed to have his men rigidly enforce the law, and will do so.

Last New Year a popular young man, Mr. James Hannon, was shot during the firing of supposed blank cartridges and died, and the police desire to entirely prevent such accidents hereafter, and will permit no blank cartridges.

While there is no law against the use of toy pistols, it is now admitted that they are as dangerous to the small boy as the real revolver is to the older one, and many cases of lockjaw have resulted from the paper cap. It is urged that boys not be allowed to use the toy pistols.

"Here, in Colorado, is the crest of the continent, its supreme split, where from a vast central plateau, itself 6,000 feet above the sea, rise hundreds of granite peaks into the regions of perpetual snow. Here the waters of a continent are divided and great rivers flowing to either ocean have their source. Here are canyons, steep, awe-inspiring and stupendous, which testify to the hoary age of the mountains they have cut asunder. Here are the continent's treasure vaults, where veins of gold and silver seam the granite mountains. Here are medicinal springs for healing and refreshment; and here, under skies of deepest blue, lies a sun-bathed land with a climate whose delights and perfections the lowland dweller may not know."—Geo. Rex Dickman.

Comfort Swing Chair

Made entirely of metal and fancy colored canvas. The material is light and firmly braced, finished in black enamel. Folds compactly, occupying space of only 24 x 31 inches. Is set up or folded by removing only four stove bolts. Perfectly simple.

Solid Comfort
In the Comfort Chair. There's no argument necessary—its simply a fact. Sitting or reclining. Swinging or not. Just good old Comfort. Put the chair anywhere. You don't need a great big lawn with trees or a great big anything. Any little shady corner will do. You can put the chair where the shade is and move it if the shade moves. The independent standards which are a part of the chair do it all.

Suppose you call and see it.
You do not need to buy—
But you probably will—other people do.
Because the price is only $3.00.
